Highlights

• On 09 July 2017, the Iraqi Prime Minister declared the city of Mosul to have been successfully retaken from the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant.

• In June 2017, 31,058 children received WFP nutrition support for the prevention and treatment of Moderate Acute Malnutrition.

• The food security of families in western Mosul has improved substantially after receiving WFP assistance, according to WFP monitoring.

Situation Update

• The Prime Minister of Iraq, Haider al-Abadi, entered Mosul on 09 July to announce that the city had been retaken from the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL), with the exception of a few small pockets of resistance in the city, which finally fell on 14 July. Despite this, fighting continues in and around Mosul, with 7,000 people displaced between 12 and 19 July 2017.

• WFP distributions to camps in and around Qayyarah, Shirqat and Hammam al-Alil, south of Mosul, were temporarily suspended on 07 July and then again on 12 July after the military imposed curfews on the area. These incidents give a sense of the instability that will continue beyond the Mosul operation.

• On 02 July 2017, a suicide bomber attacked an IDP camp 60 km west of Ramadi in Anbar, killing 14 people. WFP had distributed Family Food Rations (FFRs) to 180 families in the camp on 11 June, however no staff or partners were present at the time of the attack. As a result of the attack, the camp was closed and all families were transferred to the Habbaniya area with their food stocks and belongings.

WFP Response

• Under EMOP 200677, WFP assisted 1.6 million displaced Iraqis through Family Food Rations (FFRs) and Cash-Based Transfers (CBTs) in June 2017, as well as 299,882 people with Immediate Response Rations.

• As part of the regional PRRO 200987, to support Syrian refugees who have fled the conflict, WFP provides USD 19 per person, per month through cash and e-vouchers to 56,000 Syrian refugees. They reside in nine camps in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq (KR-I).

• WFP leads three inter-agency clusters to coordinate humanitarian action on the ground. Co-led with FAO, the Food Security Cluster works with local partners to coordinate the food security response to the crisis in Iraq. By heading the Logistics and Emergency Telecommunications Clusters through Special Operation 200746, WFP assists UN and NGO partners to ensure an effective logistics and telecommunications response.

The food security of families in western Mosul has improved.

- Families in eastern Mosul are able to buy food from markets.
- WFP provided enough Immediate Response Rations to assist those in need.
- The food security of families in western Mosul has improved substantially after receiving WFP assistance, according to WFP monitoring.
- Families in eastern Mosul are able to buy food from markets but are reliant on credit or loans from friends and family to do so, according to the latest WFP mobile assessment. In western Mosul, markets lack basic food items and even when food is available it is expensive. Seven percent more IDPs from Mosul were reported to have inadequate food consumption compared to the previous month.
- WFP provided enough Immediate Response Rations to assist 299,882 people in June 2017. This emergency assistance provided ready-to-eat food mostly to people fleeing Mosul in Ninewa Governorate. Some families received more than one ration if they were larger than five people, if they were displaced multiple times, or if they passed through multiple screening centres.

Syrian Refugees

- A total of 55,709 Syrian refugees received assistance from WFP in June 2017 under the regional Protracted Relief and Recovery Operation (PRRO). All beneficiaries received IQD 22,000 (USD 19) per beneficiary, per month.

Assisting Food Insecure Iraqis

- Based on the 2016 Comprehensive Food Security and Vulnerability Analysis (CFSVA), which found that 5.6 percent of displaced people were food insecure, WFP has refined its targeting to ensure assistance reaches the most vulnerable IDPs - those in camps and in areas previously under siege.

Resourcing Update

- WFP requires USD 2.3 million* to continue supporting Syrian refugees in Iraq until the end of December 2017.
