A decrease from the last IPC cycle (6.5m for food insecure) is noted in the proportion of the population in crisis, although the difference in absolute terms is small; this is due to different reference bases used for the calculation of the total population in DRC.