Operational Updates

- In August, WFP assisted 4,315 persons with cash transfers for 60 days in Chiquimula and Huehuetenango. The selection criteria included households with children 6 to 59 months old with acute malnutrition.

- In coordination with the Ministry of Health and local authorities, WFP helped screen 5,755 children aged 0-23 months old and 7,600 children aged 24-59 month in San Marcos, Retalhuleu, Chimaltenango and Sololá.

- In August, WFP and the Ministry of Education (MINEDUC) signed a cooperation agreement to strengthen the institutional framework of the national school feeding programme, improve the early childhood development community centres, and develop school protocols and guidelines for disaster and risk management.

- In coordination with Amazon, Inc., kitchen cookware and utensils to support 500 national schools were delivered in August, benefiting approximately 100,000 school children.

- At the request of MINEDUC and in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, WFP is developing a digital tool to monitor take-home food rations during the lockdown of schools. Currently, the tool is being tested. It will also be used for monitoring food purchases from smallholder farmers’ organizations.

- With UNAIDS funding, WFP and the Ministry of Health targeted 80 households with people living with AIDS who have been critically affected by COVID-19. Households received hygiene supplies in addition to counselling services, food and nutrition education, as well as critical medicines.

- In preparation of resilience building plans that are starting in October, WFP worked with smallholder farmer organizations to conduct a comprehensive survey to define next year’s parametric microinsurance, savings and credit pilot initiative. Smallholder farmer participants received technical assistance and initial training for the implementation of the microfinance strategy.

Strategic Result 6: Humanitarian and development partners are reliably supported by efficient and effective supply chain and other services and expertise

Focus area: Crisis response

Activities:
- The second-generation CSP will be submitted to the Executive Board in November and is subject to pending agreements between the UN and the Government, as established under the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework.

Monitoring

- During the month of August WFP followed up on the impact of the food assistance to young people in conflict with the law, provided in June and July in collaboration with the Secretariat of Social Welfare. The result and personal stories can be read here.

- As a result of COVID-19 and the ensuing economic difficulties, food-insecure households are adopting negative coping strategies related to their food consumption. Using WFP remote monitoring data collected before and during the pandemic, WFP and the Secretariat of Food Security and Nutrition are conducting an Integrated Phase Classification analysis to determine the severity of acute food insecurity. Preliminary results will be available by the end of September.

- WFP and the national Secretariat for Food Security and Nutrition will monitor food distributions to households hardest hit by the pandemic. Remote monitoring will be implemented, collecting data by phone of a random sample of beneficiaries of the social programmes of the government.

- As follow up to WFP’s evaluation of the economic impact of COVID-19 in 3 municipalities in the Polochic Valley, WFP helped initiating the economic reactivation of indigenous women’s microenterprises. WFP helped deliver livestock kits for poultry production together with 300 laying hens to women’s cooperatives in Tucurú and Panzós. Funds also helped deliver livestock vaccines.

Challenges

- While the nationwide lockdown to contain COVID-19 has been partially lifted, fieldwork implementation remains limited. Government restrictions continue to affect emergency operations. WFP is unable to gather large groups of people at distribution points which impacts the needs of WFP beneficiaries.
