Cross cutting results

WFP continues its efforts towards advancing gender equality and women's empowerment, recognising it as key to ending poverty and achieving zero hunger. In all aspects of work in Lesotho, WFP advocates for inclusion of both men and women in decision making and leadership roles.

Accountability to affected populations (AAP) remains a priority whereby during implementation of activities, WFP operationalizes three components of AAP namely information provision, consultation and establishment of complaints and feedback mechanisms.

WFP Lesotho is implementing nutrition sensitive assets creation activities that enhance communities' adaptive capacities and resilience to climate change and shocks.
