WFP Response Highlights

WFP provided an integrated package of nutrition specific and nutrition sensitive activities that incorporated a lifecycle approach to improve the immediate food security and nutritional well-being of its beneficiaries. WFP assisted over 1.73 million children aged 6-59 months, and 272,000 pregnant and breastfeeding women with nutrition support for the treatment and prevention of malnutrition in 16 states across Sudan. WFP also assisted 1.6 million school going children in 15 states with school meals or take-home rations.

In line with its commitments to SDG 17, WFP strengthened its partnership with the World Bank and was selected as the recipient for World Bank's funds and third-party implementing agency for Sudan Emergency Safety Net Project (SESNP). In the first round of distributions from August to October 2022, over 2 million beneficiaries were reached through cash-based transfers and in-kind distribution across 12 states. Additionally, approximately 1.27 million beneficiaries were biometrically registered.

Providing logistics support to the humanitarian community

Despite an increase in the number of disasters across the country, WFP remained critical in supporting the interagency response by providing critical logistics, air transport services, and information and communications technology (ICT) support. The United Nations Humanitarian Air Service (UNHAS) carried 26,342 passengers from 100 partner organizations to 36 destinations and delivered 73.7 MT of light humanitarian cargo. WFP completed the construction and rehabilitation of Zalingei Airport in Central Darfur State. A 500-meter-long runway, passenger check-in and waiting areas were rehabilitated and toilets were installed.
