

Highlights

- 1 In most food markets of cities and districts, prices for first grade flour, higher grade flour, vegetable oil and cottonseed oil increased by 1-2% compared to the last week.
- 2 During this week, the average price of eggs increased by 9%, compared to the last month by 19%, and compared to the same period of the last year by 3%.
- 3 Average prices for mutton, beef and chicken meat remain volatile, depending on the amount of stock in the consumer markets of cities and districts.
- 4 In most markets of cities and districts, average prices for potatoes and onions did not change compared to the last week. However, prices for carrots and cabbage increased by 5-7%.
- 5 Average prices for fuel, including petrol and LPG, increased by 3-11% compared to the last week. Domestic entrepreneurs believe that the reasons for the rise in fuel prices are its rising cost in producing and exporting countries, as well as its relatively small import from abroad to the local market.
